POLICY

Employee Recognition is an important part of Johns Hopkins Health System Corporation (JHHSC) and The Johns Hopkins Hospital (JHH) and all employees are encouraged to recognize others for a job well done. The formal employee recognition program is a way for JHHSC/JHH to recognize, praise and thank employees for their dedication to the organization and for their positive contributions to the organization's success.

The components of the formal recognition program include:

Employee Recognition Week

Employee Recognition Week is held annually in the Fall to recognize all employees of JHHSC/JHH. Employees are recognized for years of service and for exemplifying service excellence through the Baker-King Awards, the Edward A. Halle Prize and the HR Presidential Leadership Award. In addition, activities are scheduled throughout the week for all employees to participate. The Employee Affairs Coordinator and the Employee Recognition Committee coordinate the week's activities.

Five Year Anniversary Milestones

Employees are given a commemorative pin and congratulatory letter from the President of JHHSC/JHH during Employee Recognition Week in honor of their five year anniversary. Pins are distributed in a manner that provides appropriate recognition to the employee.

Employee Recognition Service Award Ceremony

Employees who achieve 10, 20, 30 and 40 year anniversaries are given a paid day off to attend and be honored at an afternoon ceremony and reception, if proper notification is given to their supervisor.

President's Dinner

Employees who achieve 30, 40 and 40+ anniversaries are honored at an evening dinner hosted by the President of JHHSC/JHH.

Service Awards

The Baker-King Foundation established a fund to recognize employees in any non-exempt, non-supervisory position within JHHSC/JHH. The awards are presented to employees who have been truly outstanding in the performance of their job duties, and who thus set an example for all. Each recipient receives a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, a Baker-King pin, a certificate signed by JHHSC/JHH leadership and a paid day off to attend the Service Award Ceremony.

Edward A. Halle Prize for Excellence in Patient Service

The Edward A. Halle Prize for Excellence in Patient Service honors an employee who exemplifies extraordinary human compassion and outstanding patient service. The award was established in 1993 in honor of 23-year Hospital veteran Edward Halle, who provided excellent service during his Hopkins career. The recipient of the award is selected based on complimentary letters sent by patients throughout the year. The recipient receives a certificate, a $500 check and a paid day off to attend the Service Award Ceremony.
