

The Johns Hopkins Medical and Surgical Association

January 2010

Dear Association Member,

As a valued member of the Johns Hopkins Medical and Surgical Association (JHM&SA) you play a role in the tradition of excellence that has spanned several generations. Through your studies of medicine, and your work in core sciences or clinical programs, you have brought credit to the University and this Association through your personal, professional and humanitarian achievements.

A new year has begun and our funding needs continue to be great in order to support new and continuing initiatives for our students. Contributions by members go a long way toward keeping The Association strong and maintaining a beacon of excellence. We have all felt the decline of the economy this past year, as have our students. Your help is needed now, more than ever.

In addition to helping yourself by getting a tax deduction, you can help students and trainees at Hopkins by sending in your 2010 dues contribution. A gift of $60 helps ensure that The Association can continue its worthwhile programs.

It will take the combined contributions of at least 3,800 members to continue the initiatives The Association plans to complete in 2010. We are hoping we can count on you to help us bring these and many other programs to fruition.

You can visit our website at www.hopkinsmedicine.org/jhmsa to read more about The Johns Hopkins Medical and Surgical Association and even to pay your dues online!

Thank you, in advance, for your consideration. Your gift to The Association is a gift to hundreds of medical scholars whose lives are enriched each day by our programs and efforts.

Best wishes for a healthy, happy, and prosperous new year to you and your family.

Sincerely,

William A. Crawley, M.D.
President, JHM&SA

P.S. If $60 is out of your range, won't you consider a gift of $25? Every gift really does make a difference!
