

Hopkins ID

The Hopkins ID is a six character alphanumeric identifier which uniquely identifies a member of the Johns Hopkins community. The purpose of the Hopkins ID is for identification of individuals at Johns Hopkins in connection with routine institutional business. It is intended to replace social security numbers for this purpose, thus reducing the risk of identity theft. The Hopkins ID is not used for authentication or access to any systems or services, and, like names, it is neither private nor confidential. It will be used solely by institutional officials in carrying out official business activities.

To find your Hopkins ID, logon to ISIS Self Service (<https://isis.jhu.edu/sswf>), select "Summary" under the Personal Info tab. Your Hopkins ID will appear under Biographic Information.