

Do You Have Rosacea?

Participants Needed for Research Study

Rosacea (redness, flushing, and blood vessels on the face) is one of the most common skin disorders in North America. Your participation will help us to learn more about the molecular mechanisms involved in the skin condition.

Participation Involves:

Close-up photographs of affected skin One small biopsy of your affected skin

Time Needed for Study:

1st Visit: 30 minutes for photography and one biopsy 2nd Visit: 10 minutes for removal of sutures

Will I Be Paid to Join This Study?

Yes. $20.

For more information, contact the Cutaneous Translational Research Program 410-502-SKIN (7546)

CTReP@jhmi.edu

Anna L. Chien, M.D., Principal Investigator Johns Hopkins Department of Dermatology Application No.: NA_00037679

| Rosacea (410) 502-7546 |
|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|