

The Johns Hopkins Hospital/Health System

IMMUNIZATION NOTIFICATION

In order to reduce the risk of patients acquiring potentially lethal infectious diseases, the Hospital has adopted a policy requiring that individuals working in clinical settings must have demonstrated immunity to certain childhood diseases.

If you are offered a position in a patient care area, you will be asked to bring documentation of having Rubeola, Rubella, Varicella (chicken pox), Mumps and Hepatitis B or a vaccination record.

If you have never had one of these diseases or a vaccination against the disease, we will require that you have a vaccination.

Please note that if you require a Varicella vaccination, it will delay your start date by 6 weeks.

Please sign as acknowledgment of notification.
