

The Johns Hopkins Hospital Sports Physical Therapy Residency

This developing program aims to train those who will become sports physical therapy specialists by:

- Providing clinical experience, mentorship and learning experiences needed to become a well-rounded and complete sports medicine professional.
- Using collaborative and evidence-based approach to deliver the highest quality of care to athletes and patients of all ages and competitive levels.
- Preparing the residency graduate to take the American Board of Physical Therapy Specialties' sports clinical specialist examination.

Program Benefits:

- Salary and full-time benefits
- One-on-one clinical mentorship
- In-person and hands on didactic education opportunities at the Johns Hopkins Hospital
- Conference attendance at Combined Sections Meeting
- Clinical environment, including gait and motion analysis, antigravity treadmills, and state-of-the-art modalities
- Teaching and outreach opportunities

Details:

- A 13-month residency experience
- Over 150 hours of one-on-one clinical mentorship
- Over 200 hours of sports venue and athletic training room coverage the high school level
- Over 100 hours of sports and orthopaedic didactic education at The Johns Hopkins Hospital
- 1,500 hours of clinical practice
- Clinical and sports venue experiences in collaboration with Johns Hopkins All Children's at IMG Academy

Since it was founded more than 100 years ago, The Johns Hopkins Hospital, an academic medical center located in Baltimore, MD, has been at the forefront of discovery, innovation and medical advances.

Its reputation for excellence has earned a ranking among "America's Best Hospitals" by U.S. News and World Report for more than two decades.

For more information or to apply, contact:

Nate McClain PT, DPT, SCS
Residency Program Director
nmcclai2@jhmi.edu

ABPTRFE

Accredited
Program

JOHNS HOPKINS
MEDICINE