

Johns Hopkins
Howard County Medical Center
Community Resilience Model
(CRM) Teachers

Ron Langlotz, DNP, RN, NEA-BC
VP Nursing/CNO

What do you love about being a CRM teacher?

I enjoy seeing how the skills we teach empower people to handle stressful situations with confidence and resilience. It's gratifying to watch participants grow, connect, and apply what they've learned in real life.

Chelai Green, MHA, BSN, RN
Senior Director of Operations, Surgical Services

What do you love about being a CRM teacher?

I love the opportunity to empower others with skills that can help them manage stress, build resilience, and navigate challenges whether it be in life or at work. I enjoy creating a safe space where participants can learn, practice, and apply these tools in their daily lives, knowing that even small shifts in mindset and self-regulation can have a powerful impact.

Anne Steele, MSN, RN, CPHQ, ACCNS-AG
Patient Safety Innovation Coordinator

What do you love about being a CRM teacher?

I love sharing the experiences of the participants as they practice the CRM skills.

