Support What's Needed Where It's Needed

Economic uncertainty has hit so many across our region, adding even more stress to low-income households already struggling to manage. As we've done in other times of unexpected need, United Way of Central Maryland is here to provide what's needed, where it's needed.

Whether it's access to food, resources on housing, or information on workforce training, United Way is here to help anyone who suddenly finds themselves out of work or worried about making ends meet.
