Johns Hopkins Medicine celebrates
ASIAN AMERICAN AND
PACIFIC ISLANDER HERITAGE MONTH

Hopkins-API Lunch and Learn: A Cultural Celebration
Join us for a celebration of Asian and Pacific Islander culture, with cultural trivia, polls and prizes. There will be highlight of cultural art forms and its influences in the global art scene and in movies (performing arts, visual arts, martial arts)
May 11th at 12pm-1pm
Register here to attend

Fireside Chat with the 2022 API Achievers Award Winners
Join us for a moderated discussion concerning the career path and personal journey of our Asian & Pacific Islander Achievers Awards winners.
May 18th at 12pm-1pm
Register here to attend

Challenges of Health Disparities Among Asian Americans
Hee-Soon Juon, PhD, RN, our esteemed guest speaker, for this keynote event, has spent the last three decades of her career as a social and behavioral scientist on research interests in minority health problems such as cancer control behaviors of Asian Americans including breast cancer, cervical cancer and liver cancer prevention, early detection of lung cancer, community-based participatory research (CBPR), behavioral intervention, and health disparities.

We are excited to have her share her expertise and her wealth of knowledge about minority health, particularly in regards to health disparities among Asian Americans.
May 24th at 12pm-1pm
Register here to attend

Easy & Delicious Recipes: Hopkins-API Edition Cookbook
Like many Asian and Pacific Islander families, we have a wealth of delicious recipes passed down from generations of delicious cooking from our grandparents and ancestors. We want to celebrate these recipes by sharing them to our Hopkins community!

The JHM Asian and Pacific Islander Employee Resource Group presents a collection of these recipes shared by its members. View/download link tbd.

Learn more about the JHM Asian and Pacific Islander Employee Resource Group (ERG) and other ERGs here. Interested in joining the ERG? Contact the co-chairs.

Avegrace Maraña amirangl@jhmi.edu
Abby Abraham aabraha9@jhmi.edu