Michigan Medicine is proud to announce the Second Annual Health Equity Leadership Weekend at Michigan Medicine.

Theme: Gender Equity and Gender Healthcare Equity

August 7th - 6:30pm - 8:30pm
August 8th - 8:30am - 4:30pm

Sponsored by the Office for Health Equity and Inclusion (OHEI) at Michigan Medicine. OHEI aims to promote the development of leadership skills in medical students interested in health equity, diversity and inclusion work. This virtual weekend is led by Marcia A. Perry M.D., Program Director, Health Equity Leadership Weekend, Assistant Professor, Emergency Medicine.

As members of the ACGME Pursuing Excellence Healthcare Disparities Collaborative, we are leveraging our institutional assets to engage our house officers to develop leadership skills around eliminating health disparities.

We are inviting M-4 students in good standing, interested in health equity, diversity and inclusion work to apply to be part of this journey.

Goals and Objectives

At the end of this 2-day virtual workshop:

◆ Learners will develop leadership skills to become change agents for healthcare equity and explore ways to positively lead and influence healthcare inequities.

◆ Learners will learn to address the social determinants of health (SDoH) in patient care, healthcare delivery, and explore how cultural humility, as a life-long skill development, leads to the delivery of equitable care.

◆ Learners will analyze and understand the impact of the SDoH and the root causes of the inequity that contributed to the disparate health outcomes for marginalized populations during the COVID-19 pandemic.

◆ As part of their leadership journey, learners will be equipped to discuss healthcare disparities affecting underrepresented minority women (breast cancer, cardiovascular health, maternal /fetal health, mental health).

◆ Learners will develop an understanding of the gender pay gap and the gender promotion gap in academic medicine.

◆ Learners will develop an understanding of LGBTQ health.

◆ Learners will develop an understanding of reproductive health disparities.

Registration

Students will be selected to participate in the Healthcare Equity Leadership Weekend based on their commitment to diversity, equity and/or inclusion, academic qualifications, and leadership potential.

 Please note that although faculty members of the Office for Health Equity and Inclusion will review applications, selection for participation in the Health Equity Leadership Weekend will not impact any future application to any University of Michigan Residency Program(s).

Thank you for your interest in the Health Equity Leadership Weekend. We look forward to receiving your application.

Applications will be available starting: May 22, 2020
Deadline to apply: June 1, 2020, 5:00PM (EST)
Selected participants notified: June 29, 2020
