Please see this week's announcements from the Johns Hopkins Medicine, Office of Diversity and Inclusion.

Standing in Solidarity Against Racism and Inequity*

From witnessing how the COVID-19 pandemic disproportionately affects different populations, to its economic impact felt worldwide, the past few months have been a tremendous burden for all of us to bear. And recent events remind us that we are vulnerable to senseless violence, even during a pandemic. Read a letter shared over the weekend from Johns Hopkins leaders urging that we stand in solidarity against racism and inequity.
