IEE Improve Your Teaching Website

Call for author(s)
The Editorial Board of the IEE Improve Your Teaching website https://improveteaching.med.jhmi.edu/ is planning a new module on “Diversity, Equity and Inclusion in Medical/Biomedical Teaching.” This is a critically important topic, and we are seeking a team to develop this module.

All modules follow the same structure, are meant to be fun and visually appealing, using adult learning principles:

1. Objectives
2. Preparation in Advance
3. “The Module” – the actual content, in “bite sized” tabs
4. Application of the Module
5. Next Steps and Peer Coaching
6. Summary Points

A few very brief questions are required for users who want to print a free “Certificate of Completion” and CME questions for those wanting CME credit.

We suggest those interested in being considered to develop this module review current modules in the “Teaching Methods” section of the website as examples.

Generally, the team consists of 2-3 member working on a module. Learners may be part of the team, but the Team Leader must be a SOM faculty member. Authors work closely with a senior editor and the Office of Online Education to provide guidance and support. The OOE is incredibly helpful in designing and mounting the module.

$1500 (total) will be paid to authors and up to $7500 is available to the OOE for educational design, videography and other technical items. Additionally, this is considered peer reviewed online scholarship that can be listed on the author’s CV and may be helpful toward promotion.

Expectations for authors are attached.
