

What is COVID-19?

To find out why your mom, dad, grandparent, or another family member has been feeling sick, nurses and doctors are going to test them for something called coronavirus.

What does everyone keep talking about?

There is a newly discovered type of coronavirus that causes an illness called COVID-19. A lot of symptoms are similar to the flu, which you or someone you know might have had before. Adults around the country are working hard to keep everyone safe. If there is something you feel confused or worried about, ask an adult you trust.

How does COVID-19 make people feel?

Some of the symptoms of COVID-19 are coughing, having a fever, and feeling like it is hard to breathe. If your family member needs to stay in the hospital, the doctors and nurses will work hard to help them feel better so that they can go home.

Here are some ways to help your family member:

- ❖ Call/FaceTime
- ❖ Write them a card
- ❖ Tell them about your day

What can I do to keep people healthy?

Since this is a new virus, the hospital does not want it to spread and make others feel sick. To help others stay healthy, the hospital made a new rule: no family members can visit right now. You can help yourself and others by washing your hands, staying home if you are sick, coughing or sneezing into a tissue or your elbow, and by keeping your hands away from your face to stop germs from spreading.
